Esconder o código de conexão do firebase

(para ninguém acessar essa parte do código. Será possível ver apenas se o usuário ver o código no github)

• Criar um arquivo javascript e um html no vscode

Ex: firebase.js
Ex: index.html

• Colocar as APIs que serão utilizadas no projeto no arquivo html

<script src="https://www.gstatic.com/firebasejs/6.1.1/firebase-app.js"></script>
<script src="https://www.gstatic.com/firebasejs/6.1.1/firebase-database.js"></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></script></s

 Colocar o endereço para o arquivo firebase.js no arquivo html (logo abaixo dos códigos das APIs)

• Criar uma função anônima e colocar o código de configuração no arquivo firebase.js

| Colocar o código de configuração | Colocar o colocar o
